LAWSON'S DRY HILLS LATE HARVEST RIESLING 2005

To Whet the Appetite ...

- Color: Golden with brilliant clarity.
- Nose: Loads of sweet dried fruit – apricots and raisins.
- Palate: A luscious mix of dried apricot, fig, candied orange and honey combined with a balanced sweetness that finishes with clean crisp acidity.

What they are saying...

The Wine Advocate – Neal Martin

“... offers an attractive, waxy, slightly honeyed nose. The palate is well-balanced, slightly honeyed with notes of honeysuckle, nectarine and a touch of fresh figs towards the Alsatian finish.”

Otago Daily Times - Charmian Smith

“Botrytis or noble rot, that shrivels the grapes and concentrates the juices, gives this wine a delicious complexity and balance. It's slightly funky on the nose, with floral and herbal aromas; there a suggestion of honey, nuts butterscotch and marmalade in the mouth and a rich, lush, oily texture, despite that it dances lightly on the tongue and has a lively, crisp finish. A fine example of botrytised Marlborough Riesling, this wine will develop over several years.”

The Tasting Room - Bob Campbell MW (New Zealand)

“90/100 Very sweet and luscious wine with obvious botrytis influence. Reasonably light acidity puts focus on opulent fruit flavours. Riesling citrus characters still evident. Lond and impressive.”

Australian Gourmet Traveller Wine Magazine

“94 POINTS. ... in 2005 it made its best ever sticky with Riesling. Very sweet and luscious with obvious botrytis influence. Light acidity offsets the wine's citrus and tropical fruit flavours.”

Winestate Magazine (Australia)
